This popular evaluation of the state of th

H. B. McKron, Esq.—

Dean Sin—Allow me to express to you the gratification I experienced on visiting your delightful entertainment last week. Having risited many of the scenes—near and afar of—in distant parts of the globesthat you so well and faithfully represent, I am sable thus to speak in the culoristic terms I do. The statuary was, indeed, most beautiful; and the suiden. almost magical, transformations were truly exquisite. Calling to mind the numerous pictures of well known places familiar to my eye that came before me, I known places familiar to my eye that came before me, I known places familiar to my eye that came before me, I known places familiar to my eye that came before me, I known to which to particularize as deserving most encomium. Venice and the Bridge of Sights; how true to the life, and how beautiful. Chamouni and Mont Blanc, Switzerland, where I have so often rambled 'milat it is snow clad Alps. Paris and its mativols. The Holy Land and its sacred spots China, with its singular people; and more that it could name, were presented to my view with extraordinary fidelity. Frobably you may have many other scenes in distant parts of the globe where I have been that are to be at hibited, or were represented at other times before my visit. At all events I shall certainly come again whenever I can, and I trust you have all that success your entertainment truly deserved. I am, dear sir, yours truly.
